

Corporate Training

Solutions Overview

Introduction

At Dalen Design Concepts we provide specialist furniture design and manufacture of discrete products to suit client needs. Our solutions are based on considerable experience in universities where collaborative meeting spaces and effective work places are of paramount importance to deliver leading active learning spaces.

Training Knowledge Transfer

Working in teams to solve problems that require analysis, research and critical thinking to ensure detailed subject understanding.

The Synergy collaborative table can be used in any environment.

Employee & Graduate Training

Today's employers are looking beyond graduates that just excel in their chosen subject, requiring their new recruits too demonstrate essential skills that equip them for a wide range of collaborative engagements that are a vital element of modern working practices.

Creating the right Environment

Our open-plan training room solutions help generate an atmosphere that readily encourages a sharing of information. The use of Synergy collaborative tables creates hubs of activity that includes technology where possible to share knowledge and understanding of business outcomes.

Training Client Education

It is essential to demonstrate skills that equip trainees for a wide range of collaborative engagements that are vital elements of modern working practices.

Training Management

Corporate collaborative environments blend furniture, space and technology with new active learning methods to bring about benefits to both their employees and their own reputation.

Corporate Training Rooms

Training rooms engage employees in deeper subject understanding and help develop a range of workplace skills. These types of solutions are using to help groups work in teams to solve problems that require analysis, research and critical thinking.

Interactive spaces

These new spaces can help promote internal development of staff and trainees where planned and unplanned group meetings can be convened to drive through key decisions or topics.

Active Learning Studios

As universities compete for the best students, modern corporate-style facilities delivering excellence in learning and teaching and better preparing graduates for life beyond their studies will help recruit the best students and increase their employment prospects upon graduation.

Synergy workstations are used for group collaboration during training sessions for small group analysis. Seamlessly technology can be integrated to allow you to synchronise and display group work locally or amongst the cluster.

Dalen Design Concepts help produce solutions that play to the social strengths of people and relationships where teamwork and talking to solve complex problems are key. Replacing outdated training techniques, we deliver benefits to trainees and instructors through our corporate training solutions:

- Trainees enjoy learning more and achieve better outcomes.
- Trainees are better equipped with transferable skills for employment or research or continuing training
- Instructors have a better environment to work with.

Just as in all collaborative environments, these Corporate training rooms help blend furniture, space and technology with new pedagogies to bring about these benefits to both their students and their own reputations.

Training Corporate Standards

Modern corporate-style facilities deliver excellence in learning and better prepare employees for life beyond the classroom and help recruit the best candidates for employment.

Maximising Value from the Physical Environment

Breakout spaces have been proven to increase activity within trainees. By slightly altering the environment, it helps to raise work rate and morale and increase knowledge transfer.

Using Collaborative Spaces

The business community are embracing the collaborative approach as part of their agile working methods. Collaborative meeting tables can be utilised from small office spaces to large meeting rooms, our Synergy solutions allow the user to change the ethos of the meeting space. This new style of meeting breaks down departmental barriers and helps become more collaborative promoting more positive outcomes.

dalen

design concepts

Birmingham Office, Showroom & Factory

Dalen Limited
Valepits Road
Garretts Green
Birmingham
B33 0TD
United Kingdom

Tel: +44 (0)121 508 4350
E-mail: sales@dalendesigns.co.uk
Web: www.dalendesigns.co.uk